Analyst View:

The market is growing due to the increased use of ginger oil, which has a variety of benefits. Furthermore, the use of ginger is on the rise as a result of its antioxidant and anti-inflammatory qualities, which allow it to act as an immune system modulator while alleviating inflammation-related symptoms. Ginger is good for skin care products since it contains many antioxidants that can protect skin from free radicals. Additionally, it can help acne-prone skin recover, even out skin tone, and promote circulation while also delivering extra advantages. This is causing an increase in the use of ginger in the personal care and cosmetics business, which is fueling market expansion.
